The Newark Museum of Art Presents Community Day: Juneteenth, Sat., June 19, 2021
10 a.m. - 5 p.m.

Virtual activities such as “George Floyd’s Legacy” and “Tearing Down the Fourth Wall: The True Meaning of Juneteenth” will educate families about racism in America

Newark NJ - June 14, 2021 - On Saturday, June 19, from 10 a.m. - 5 p.m., The Newark Museum of Art will hold its next virtual Community Day, highlighting the significance of Juneteenth. The day will be filled with educational and creative sessions that explore the history of inequities and racial divides in America, including participation by representatives of the family of George Floyd and the George Floyd Foundation.

Events will be available on Zoom, YouTube, Twitter and Twitch. Admission for The Newark Museum of Art’s virtual Community Days are free through the generous support of the Horizon Foundation for New Jersey and the New Jersey Council for the Humanities, a state partner of the National Endowment for the Humanities.

Attendees will start the day with an art-making activity with children’s author and artist Kween Moore, and end it with an in-depth and unfiltered panel discussion about the meaning behind Juneteenth and its relevance in today’s society. The Museum is particularly honored to host the family of George Floyd as a part of the event, which will include a moment of remembrance followed by updates on the initiatives of the George Floyd Foundation.

Juneteenth is a celebration of the emancipation of those who we enslaved in the United States. In September 2020, New Jersey Governor Phil Murphy signed legislation designating Juneteenth as a state and public holiday.

“While the reckoning over race in this country is fresh on our minds, learning about and honoring Juneteenth is so important for the Newark community, as well as across New Jersey and the nation,” said Silvia Filipini-Fantoni, Deputy Director of Learning & Engagement at The Newark Museum of Art. “We are proud to honor a day that underscores the need to continue to address the inequities and the chasm in the racial divide across America. We are eager to share The Museum’s unique use of culture to teach our community and the public about race inequality in America and the efforts made to promote racial diversity in many aspects of society. This will be an important day of virtual events that should not be missed.”

The Last Northern State to Abolish Slavery: Black Freedom @ The Newark Museum of Art
Recommended for all ages

Experience the City of Newark from a totally different view, as we explore Newark’s rich history. New Jersey was the last state to abolish slavery, and by the end of the Civil War, there were more than 15 people living as “slaves for life.” Here on the land of The Newark Museum of Art, Noelle Lorraine Williams will tell three interrelated stories connected to Black freedom. The first one is about Governor Marcus Ward, whose house and carriage house sit on the grounds where The Newark Museum of Art is today. The second story talks about the Billings Family, an African American family who lived in Wards’s carriage house for several decades. Finally, we will discuss the Coe Well one of the oldest surviving objects by enslaved people in New Jersey. This program will be available on the Museum’s social media channels and led by Noelle Lorraine Williams, Curator and Researcher of the Black Power! 19th Century: Newark’s First African American Rebellion exhibition.

Tearing Down the Fourth Wall: The True Meaning of Juneteenth
4 p.m.
Recommended for ages 16 and up

An unfiltered panel discussion with thought leaders and advocates for change for the Black community. Dive deep into the relevance of Juneteenth and explore why it is not just another holiday. Moderated by Leslie Short, owner of The Cavu Group, a diversity, inclusion and culture firm. Panelists include Junius Williams, Newark historian, author, and activist; Tezlyn Figaro, political consultant and Senior Advisor for the George Floyd Foundation; and Principal Baruti Kafele, school leadership expert and author of the Equity & Social Justice Education 50: Critical Questions for Improving Opportunities and Outcomes for Black Students.
